Pahokee Chamber honors citizen of the year

The Prince Theatre was packed with more than 120 persons May 21 for the 30th Annual Pahokee Chamber of Commerce Awards Dinner Banquet.

WIRK radio personality and chamber President Simon Train emceed the event, which honored Doris Weatherington as Pahokee's Citizen of the Year.

"I'm delighted," said Mrs. Weatherington, a Pahokee resident since 1926. "This is really unexpected and I'm very flattered."

Mrs. Weatherington and husband C. P. were married nearly 40 years ago and have worked at Weatherington's Funeral Home since 1946. They bought the business in 1961. Mrs. Weatherington is a 1944 Pahokee High School graduate. The mother of three children, she also has a degree from Miami-Tech.

A member of the First Baptist Church, Mrs. Weatherington helped found the Pahokee Civic Pride Association, a group which helps to beautify and renovate the city. The PCPA also co-sponsors the city's annual Fourth of July Freedom Festival.

A founding member of the Prince Theatre Association, Mrs. Weatherington was a prime mover in the renovation and restoration of Prince Theatre. She wants to bring family entertainment to the theatre at least once a month. The chamber's banquet was the first ever held in the Theatre, Weatherington said.

Chamber Director Ray Hatton II presented two awards for Christmas Holiday Decorations. Parrish Jewelry won in the business category, while the Roger Hatton family won in the residential area.

The 1981 chamber STAR Student honored was Jasmine Rose Marie Benjamin, a PHS student. A Distinguished Service To Our Community Award was given to Mr. and Mrs. Elisha and Lucy Baines. Lucy Baines is chamber treasurer. The two were honored for their several years of service to PHS athletics.

Media awards were given to two local newspapers and one radio station: the Belle Glade bureau of the West Palm Beach Post and Evening Times, Glades Trend and WSWN.

Three businessmen received President's Plaques — Joe Alderman II of Glades Mercantile, J. Ray Hatton of Hatton Bros., and Nina Hatton.

Entertainment after the Fr-Eddy's catered dinner included Immokalee's Lonnie Johnson, Shoji Tabuchi and Gary Goodnight.

Glades residents support Red Cross Centennial Celebration

By JIM JONES

Sunday's Glades Area American Red Cross Centennial Celebration at the Belle Glade marina was a sure-fire success, but just how successful, no one knows yet.

Chairman Marshall Bull reported Tuesday, May 26, that 500 barbecue chicken dinners—all that were available—were sold, as were a sizeable amount of hot dogs. Still to be figured in are the proceeds from the fishing tournament.

Bull said that the amount of money raised by the Sunday afternoon celebration would be known sometime Thursday, after the proceeds are picked up from the bank and counted.

Conditions for Sunday's big event, designed to raise money for a Glades office of the American Red Cross, could hardly have been better. Warm, sunny skies prevailed, while an occasional cool breeze helped keep the casual crowd from overheating.

Skip and Debbie of Pahokee provided musical entertainment as lunch was served under the shade of the pavilion. Fatigue and khaki clad National Guardsmen mingled with civilians in blue jeans and shorts. The Guard helped out with opening ceremonies and had some of their equipment on display.

The Guardsmen were an important part of the Memorial Day weekend celebration: one of the chartered aims of the American Red Cross is to serve U.S. servicemen.

Congressman Dan Mica made a few brief opening remarks before departing about 12:30 p.m.

Music Scholarship. Former West Area Superintendent of Education, H. W. Berryman, presently Asst. Supt. of Regular Instruction for Palm Beach County School will present the diplomas.

The invocation was given by Salutatorian Kelley Thomas and Benediction was given by Salutatorian Cheryl Goforth. Everglades Memorial accredited PAHOKEE — Everglades Memorial Hospital has been awarded a Certificate of Accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH). Everglades Memorial Hospital has, in recent year, never received less than the coveted two year certificate.

Frank Steinberger, chief executive officer, said the hospital was evaluated during an on-site visit by a team of JCAH surveyors who conferred with the professional staff.

Accreditation means that Everglades Memorial Hospital has voluntarily sought to be measured against the JCAH's national standards. The accreditation program assists facilities in pursuing high quality health care through education, evaluation and consultation. JCAH accreditation is professional national recognition.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals is a private, non-profit organization created by and composed of health care professionals. It is governed by representatives from the American College of Surgeons, American College of Physicians, American Dental Association, American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association.

"This two year accreditation is most gratifying," said Steinberger, everyone from the Board of Trustees, physicians, hospital staff employees and volunteers are to be congratulated."

Throughout the day, a variety of entertainment was provided, including a demonstration of K-9 tactics by the Belle Glade Police Department and the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, power gliding demonstrations by Florida Free Flight of Fort Lauderdale, and water skiing by Sunshine Water Sports.

Probably the highlight of the day, however, was the Firematics competition between the Belle Glade paid and volunteer firemen and South Bay firemen.

Belle Glade firemen were eventually announced as winners of the over-all competition. Team winners included Belle Glade volunteer firemen in the put-on clothes contest, and the obstacle course, and Belle Glade paid firemen in the bucket brigade and water battle. Belle Glade paid firemen won the tie-breaker relay race. In the final standings, Belle Glade paid firemen were first, Belle Glade volunteer firemen were second, and South Bay firemen were third. For their efforts, the Belle Glade paid firemen received a trophy which they will keep until the contest next year.

"The turnout was excellent. We had excellent cooperation from everyone," said Marshall Bull. "I want to thank everyone from the bottom of my heart who had anything to do with the celebration."

SOUTH BAY firemen move a barrel through an obstacle course, using only the jet from their fire hose.

Best sports year ever?

It might have been the greatest high school sports year in the history of western Palm Beach County.

Yep, when you look at the records of all our high school sports teams in each of the four major high school in our region (Glades Central, Pahokee, Glades Day and Christian Day) a case can be made for picking 1980-81 as the greatest east Glades sports year ever.

Two big achievements highlight the year. Glades Day High School's Class A Gators won the state football championship on a chilly night in Baker in December. And the Pahokee Blue Devils track and field teams accomplished an unprecedented double-whammy—both the girls and the boys teams won their respective Class AA state titles.

With an unblemished 13-0 slate, the Gators established themselves as the kings of "Muck Football" as their awesome offense and dynamite defense mowed down opponent after opponent. The Blue Devils girls and boys were probably the first boy-girl state champs act ever in Class AA track too. But these teams, great though they were, were not the only reasons I pick 1980-81 as the east Glades best.

Joye Burroughs led her lady Raiders basketball squad to more than 20 victories before being stopped in the Class AAA state championship match. Joye who signed with Florida State for this fall, received so many awards during her four-year GCHS career that she is probably—no, make that undoubtedly the best female Raider basketball player ever.

Glades Central's football team, with future University of Florida star Greg Bain and future FSU star Jesse Hester, placed second in the sectional. The Christian Day Crusaders also had their best football season ever.

Sheila Nix and the other Glades Central girls track stars had a super season, setting state and school records everywhere they went.

And the Crusader's baseball team was out-sight finishing in the top four in the state among Class A schools with a 23-6 record. They were the best sports team in the school's history.

Overall, Christian Day probably had their best athletic year ever, with new winning records being set by nearly every department.

Winning 18 games, Glades Day's girls softball team compiled the best record in their history and in their district this year. The Gator tennis team, led by state tourney participants Deidre Orduna and sister Felissa, won 10 matches. Glades Day's golfers had their best season ever, going 8-2, and the Gator girls basketball team has its best season ever.

Pahokee and Glades Central also won two state titles each in state Special Olympics competition in Orlando this year.

All in all, our region's high school athletes turned in quite an impressive year. It'll be a year to remember and a tough one to top.

We Got The Wrong Reeves....

In last week's story on Glades Day High School's graduation ceremonies, we mistakenly printed the wrong biography for one of the school's valedictorians. Gena Reeves is a co-Valedictorian this year at Glades Day, not Jeanna Reeves. We're sorry about the mix-up and you can read about Gena in our special graduation supplement in this week's Herald—Observer. Congratulations Gena!

Why it's that way

Within the past few weeks, we've had calls from several people, asking that arrests not be reported in the newspaper.

One of the callers was the mother of an 18 year old man and the other call was from a young man who had been involved in a separate, unrelated case.

In both cases, the callers were told that the incidents were public record and that favoritism could not be shown.

If an incident is serious enough to warrant a citation or arrest, then it maybe important enough to put into the paper.

Police news is as much a part of community news as are weddings, graduation notices, sports, planning and zoning decisions, and classifieds.

It may be embarrassing for a person, who has been charged with, let's say, driving while intoxicated, to have that fact reported in the newspaper.

But when it happens, it happens, and it will be reported in the paper.

We think that driving while intoxicated is a serious offense. We're concerned about the innocent people who have been killed by the drunken driver. One way to avoid the DWI report is not to drive while intoxicated.

That's not to say that we treat DWI like murder, unless someone is killed...that's the way it is.

Not every item on the police blotter is reported. We would probably fill the paper up with nothing but police news if we reported everything law enforcement officers did during the week. What we do, however, is to make a subjective judgement on what is news: the interesting, unusual, and significant.

Coupled with this is the desire to be as consistent and even handed as possible.

This applies to newspaper people as well. Our policy is to give special coverage, in fact, to newspaper people charged with offenses.

If editor Jim Jones or publisher Jim Zimmer are charged with DWI, you won't have any trouble finding out about it. The story with the photograph of the offender will be on page one.

The policy is sort of like the whale's throat. The largest mammal on earth, the whale, weighs up to 300,000 pounds, but has a small throat and eats plankton, a tiny, floating organism. Why? That's just the way that it is.

In a related vein, it has been our policy not to report the names of students expelled by the school board from school.

We do report the full details of the student's actions leading to the disciplinary action.

This contrasts with some of the larger papers from the coast which routinely report the names of students who are expelled.

A good argument can be made either way on the reporting of student names. We just happen to think it not in the best interest of the student, school, or community to report the name.

Housing project

fills legitimate need

From the main highway, Okeechobee Center looks like a model housing project.

This is no urban housing development where tenants are crammed into multi-family units. Okeechobee Center features single family units, built on spacious green lawns.

Initial appearances are deceiving, however, as one discovers upon driving farther into Okeechobee Center.

Vintage 1939 frame houses which have done yeoman duty are to be found at the rear of the development.

The houses are literally falling apart. Some have bad roofs, bad foundations or other problems.

Every one connected with the housing project has known about the problem, including tenants and the Belle Glade Housing Authority.

David Motes, housing authority executive director, reported that planning to replace the dilapidated housing started 2½ years ago.

The long wait finally paid off Tuesday, May 19, when ground was broken at the development, symbolizing the start of construction of 162 new units at Okeechobee and Ocoola Centers.

New houses don't come cheaply these days and the project is estimated to cost $5 million, or about $31,000 per house.

Thanks to a grant and loan from the Farmers Home Administration, however, the start of this latest building project is now history.

As FmHA State Director Mitchell Drew said at the ground breaking, this is a good use of taxpayers' money.

Taxpayers' money spent to correct problems and increase the living standard of a substantial segment of the community is a legitimate expenditure.

It is just one more example that communities in the Glades area have and are addressing their problems and are moving in the right direction.

Harmen says good-bye to Christian Day

After leading Christian Day School into the state baseball playoffs this spring, Crusader Coach Gus Harman has announced that he will be leaving the Glades, following this school year. Harman will go on to graduate school at either Georgia Southern or Delta State. He says he is leaning toward Delta State because his wife, Denise, would have the opportunity to obtain her bachelor's degree in nursing there.

If he goes to Delta State, he would be a graduate assistant to Dave "Boo" Ferris, who has accumulated over 400 coaching victories in 19 years. Harman, 25, compiled a 36-14 record in his two years at Christian Day. He also coached the football last year and had a 4-5 season, best in the three years that the school has been playing organized football.

Harman says that he eventually hopes to coach at the junior college level. He also wants to coach closer to his native Tennessee.

"I've enjoyed the Glades," he said. "I'm really going to miss working with these boys. That's the hardest thing to leave. I've met some of the nicest people there are here."

Harman said that he has learned a lot at Christian Day and believes that the Crusaders can continue their winning ways again next year.

"I'd like to thank every one who has helped us," he said.

Maloy said all outside irrigation should be limited to non-daylight hours unless a stricter ordinance was adopted by the City.

lawn sprinkling hours from 4 a.m. to 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. to 7 a.m.

Councilman George Tillis, said he felt the Council should go with the 4 to 6 a.m. hours since the Management District had allowed the city to go with the 10 percent reduction.

Councilman William "Billy" McKinstry who made the motion to change the sprinkling hours to 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., said he felt the 4 to 6 a.m. hours were to confining.

In other business before the Council:

• Set a Public Hearing on the request of Richard Nason and Alyce Tyson to rezone several tracts of land.

• Adopted the City of Pahokee Federal Revenue Sharing Budget.

• Exempted the Pahokee Harbor operators from paying rent and utilities for three months because of the low lake level.

Glades General retains auditing firm

Main, Hurdman and Cranston of Miami was chosen as the Glades General Hospital's auditing for the next three years at the Glades General Hospital Board's regular meeting Tuesday night.

The board approved paying the accounting firm $10,000 for the first year of the audit, and approved at least a 10 percent increase for each of the two remaining years. In addition, the board board presentations from representatives of Milton Carpenter Insurance and Farm Bureau concerning the hospital's insurance renewal. The hospital's current insurance plans run out July 1 and the board instructed Glades General Administrator Pat Lennon to study the two firm's proposals.

Orthopedic surgeon Dr. Jaime Benavides spoke to the board about creating a Stroke Rehabilitation Clinic within the hospital. The clinic would be headed by Benavides and would provide recuperative and outpatient care to recovering stroke victims.

The nearest stroke clinic is in West Palm Beach. No special equipment would have to be purchased to start the clinic, Benavides said.

and the cost of the operation would be minimal. The board approved the idea.

The Joint Commission of Accreditation in Chicago sent their annual evaluation of Glades General to the board this month, commending the institution for its health care efforts and granting it accreditation for another year.

Best sports year ever?

It might have been the greatest high school sports year in the history of western Palm Beach County.

Yep, when you look at the records of all our high school sports teams in each of the four major high school in our region (Glades Central, Pahokee, Glades Day and Christian Day) a case can be made for picking 1980-81 as the greatest east Glades sports year ever.

Two big achievements highlight the year. Glades Day High School's Class A Gators won the state football championship on a chilly night in Baker in December. And the Pahokee Blue Devils track and field teams accomplished an unprecedented double-whammy—both the girls and the boys teams won their respective Class AA state titles.

With an unblemished 13-0 slate, the Gators established themselves as the kings of "Muck Football" as their awesome offense and dynamic defense mowed down opponent after opponent. The Blue Devils girls and boys were probably the first boy-girl state champs act ever in Class AA track too. But these teams, great though they were, were not the only reasons I pick 1980-81 as the east Glades best.

Joye Burroughs led her lady Raiders basketball squad to more than 20 victories before being stopped in the Class AAA state championship match. Joye who signed with Florida State for this fall, received so many awards during her four-year GCHS career that she is probably no, make that undoubtedly the best female Raider basketball player ever.

Glades Central's football team, with future University of Florida star Greg Bain and future FSU star Jesse Hester, placed second in the sectional. The Christian Day Crusaders also had their best football season ever.

Sheila Nix and the other Glades Central girls track stars had a super season, setting state and school records everywhere they went. And the Crusader's baseball team was out-a-sight finishing in the top four in the state among Class A schools with a 23-6 record. They were the best sports team in the school's history.

Overall, Christian Day probably had their best athletic year ever, with new winning records being set by nearly every department.

Winning 18 games, Glades Day's girls softball team compiled the best record in their history and in their district this year. The Gator tennis team, led by state tourney participants Deirdre Orduna and sister Felisse, won 10 matches. Glades Day's golfers had their best season ever, going 8-2, and the Gator girls basketball team has its best season ever.

Pahokee and Glades Central also won two state titles each in state Special Olympics competition in Orlando this year.

All in all, our region's high school athletes turned in quite an impressive year. It'll be a year to remember and a tough one to top.

We Got The Wrong Reeves....

In last week's story on Glades Day High School's graduation ceremonies, we mistakenly printed the wrong biography for one of the school's valedictorians. Gena Reeves, is a co-Valedictorian this year at Glades Day, not Jesse Reeves. We're sorry about the mix-up and you can read about Gena in our special graduation supplement in this week's Herald-Observer. Congratulations Gena!

Why it's that way

Within the past few weeks, we've had calls from several people, asking that arrests not be reported in the newspaper.

One of the callers was the mother of an 18 year old man and the other call was from a young man who had been involved in a separate, unrelated case.

In both cases, the callers were told that the incidents were public record and that favoritism could not be shown.

If an incident is serious enough to warrant a citation or arrest, then it maybe important enough to put into the paper.

Police news is as much a part of community news as are weddings, graduation notices, sports, planning and zoning decisions, and classifieds.

It may be embarrassing for a person, who has been charged with, let's say, driving while intoxicated, to have that fact reported in the newspaper.

But when it happens, it happens, and it will be reported in the paper.

We think that driving while intoxicated is a serious offense. We're concerned about the innocent people who have been killed by the drunken driver. One way to avoid the DWI report is not to drive while intoxicated.

That's not to say that we treat DWI like murder, unless someone is killed...that's just the way it is.

Housing project

fills legitimate need

From the main highway, Okeechobee Center looks like a model housing project.

This is no urban housing development where tenants are crammed into multi-family units. Okeechobee Center features single family units, built on spacious green lawns.

Initial appearances are deceiving, however, as one discovers upon driving farther into Okeechobee Center.

Vintage 1939 frame houses which have done yeoman duty are to be found at the rear of the development.

The houses are literally falling apart. Some have bad roofs, bad foundations or other problems.

Every one connected with the housing project has known about the problem, including tenants and the Belle Glade Housing Authority.

David Motes, housing authority executive director, reported that planning to replace the dilapidated housing started 2 1/2 years ago.

The long wait finally paid off Tuesday, May 19, when ground was broken at the development, symbolizing the start of construction of 162 new units at Okeechobee and Ocoola Centers.

New houses don't come cheaply these days and the project is estimated to cost $5 million, or about $31,000 per house.

Thanks to a grant and loan from the Farmers Home Administration, however, the start of this latest building project is now history.

As FMHA State Director Mitchell Drew said at the ground breaking, this is a good use of taxpayers' money.

Taxpayers' money spent to correct problems and increase the living standard of a substantial segment of the community is a legitimate expenditure.

It is just one more example that communities in the Glades area have and are addressing their problems and are moving in the right direction.

Not every item on the police blotter is reported. We would probably fill the paper up with nothing but police news if we reported everything law enforcement officers did during the week. What we do, however, is to make a subjective judgement on what is news: the interesting, unusual, and significant.

Coupled with this is the desire to be as consistent and even handed as possible.

This applies to newspaper people as well. Our policy is to give special coverage, in fact, to newspaper people charged with offenses.

If editor Jim Jones or publisher Jim Zimmer are charged with DWI, you won't have any trouble finding out about it. The story with the photograph of the offender will be on page one.

The policy is sort of like the whale's throat. The largest mammal on earth, the whale, weighs up to 300,000 pounds, but has a small throat and eats plankton, a tiny floating organism. Why? That's just the way that it is.

In a related vein, it has been our policy not to report the names of students expelled by the school board from school.

We do report the full details of the student's actions leading to the disciplinary action.

This contrasts with some of the larger papers from the coast which routinely report the names of students who are expelled.

A good argument can be made either way on the reporting of student names. We just happen to think it not in the best interest of the student, school, or community to report the name.
